LEAVING WEITZEL LOCK, SOO, MICH.

Steamer "Wm. B. Davock" about to leave Weitzel lock on the Lake Superior level, showing the gates just opening. A canoe load of tourists, guided by two Indians, has been locked up, in the same locking and they are just leaving, on their way to shoot the rapids.

Since the water power companies have taken up so much of the rapids, each canoe must be locked through and taken all the way up and around the head of the canal before they can shoot the rapids. This makes a novel and pleasant trip for the sight-seer, aside from the actual rapids trip itself.
